A MANIAC MINISTER

The Rev. W. A. Milner, of Summerville, Ga., Becomes Violently Insane.

HAS TO BE HELD BY FORCE

For Twenty Years the Respected and Efficient Pastor of the Presbyterian Church.

CLOSE STUDY SUPPOSED CAUSE

Judge Tom Milner, of Cartersville, a Brother of the Afflicted Man, Now Has Him in Charge-It Is Feared That He Is Hopelessly Insane and His Guards Dare Not Leave Him

Summerville, Ga., January 23.

Special to The Evening Constitution. Rev. W. A. Milner pastor of the Preshy. terian church at this place for the past twenty-three years, has suddenly become a raving maniac. Educated and intelligent he stood above reproach in every particular, and was one of the ablest exponents of the truths of the scriptures in this section of the country.

Glorying in the work of his master, he has battled faithfully and fearlessly for the salvation of souls and the evangelization of the world.

He is violently, and it is feared hopelessly insane. His condition is such that three men are required to hold him in bed, and dare not leave him for a moment. Being a close and untiring student, it is thought that his brain has been overtaxed and his mental faculties thereby dethroned. He has always been commendably con servative as regards men and measures. a political rostrum out of his pulpit.

This position made him a few onemies, who were harsh in their criticisms, but it made him also a great many friends. Judge Tom Milner, his brother, of Cartersville, is here attending him.

WEYLER HAS HIS BAPTISM OF FIRE

Insurgents Attack Him at Gopaste and In a Fierce Running Fight Several of His Personal Escort Are Slain.

New York, January 23 .- A dispatch to the Herald from Havana, via Key West, says: General Weyler has received his baptism of fire in the field. He may have even been astounded by the brilliancy of the flash of the insurgent steel before his very

At all events many of his special escort of guides, a corps of Cuban negroes, who enjoy the distinction of guarding the person of the general when he takes the field, arrived here Tuesday night seriously wounded with machete thrusts. Several have since died.

Eight members of the same corps, all wounded, reached Havana on Wednesday morning. From their accounts it is clear that early on Tuesday morning the rebels, under Aranguren and Arango, made a startlingly bold and dashing attempt to capture the captain general, which was nearly crowned with success.

Three Hundred Houses Burned. General Weyler entered the village of Quatro Camiros on Monday afternoon Orders were at once given that all the inhabitants should leave their homes within two hours. The village being deserted. the torch was applied, and all the houses, about three hundred in number, were destroyed.

The captain general then proceeded toward Gopaste, sixteen kilometers further on the road to Guines. Gopaste was reached after nightfall and a corps of guides was sent forward to reconnoiter. General Weyler, with the main Spanish column, under Colonel Segura, halted some distance outside the village. The insurgents, at the orders of their leaders, had concealed themselves in the houses in the

Their plans were evidently well laid, and succeeded in capturing the desired prize, the Spanish commander himself.

Unfortunately for the fulfillment of the design of the insurgent leaders, while the Spanish scouts were engaged in the reconnoissance the guns of some of the concealed rebels were accidently discharged, giving the alarm to the royal troops.

and attacked the enemy with great fury, inflicting severe loss in their resistless onslaught. So bold, in fact, was the insurgent column that it pursued the rapidly retreating Spaniards to a point almost within range of the troops in General Weyler's main body, and easily within the compass of a field glass, if the captain general had cared to inspect the dispersal of his own soldiers. Captain General Weyler spent Wednes day night in Guines and, according to official reports received here, expected to enter Matanzas on Friday.

The New Chinese Minister to England Will Arrive in June and Bring Magnificent Presents to the Queen. Lady Scott's Treatment in Holloway Prison Is Criticised by Fashionable Circles as Being Too Lenient.

Srecial London Letter.

London, January 23.—The developments of the debate on the address in reply to the queen's speech have so far been adverse to the hopes of the liberals, and especially of the home rulers, who expected the government to be greatly weakened over the Irish finance agitation.
The much-talked-of coalition between Irish unionists and nationalists is not the Practical sort of common action which the practical sort of common action which the nationalist leaders desired and were led to believe would be effected. Since parlia-ment met views have been exchanged between Colonel Saunderson, Horace Plunket Mr. Dillon, Mr. Healy and others of the Irish members as to how far their agree-ment of opinion on Irish finances meant active co-operation toward a common end.

The length to which this Irish debate promises to run is another illustration of the impotence of any English government to stop Irish questions blocking the way in parliament. This was to be in no respect an Irish session, yet there is a certain prospect that Ireland will absorb larger portion of the parliamentary year. The three great Irish questions which have been forced upon the consideration of parliament and the country-financial reforms, board of agriculture and a Catho lic university for Ireland—compete with, the purely English measures before the Catholic University for Ireland. The Catholic bishops of Ireland are taking no specially prominent part in the nuance discussion. Their attention is chief-ly directed to the demand for a Catnolic university. Their memorial, signed by cvery Catholic bishop in Ireland, which has been before the cabinet since early in Oc-cember, will undoubted; stimulate the government to future action.

The radicals, especially Mr. Labouchere and his little clique, who have been assailing Lord Salisbury's policy in the east, will gain nothing by it, but will rather enhance his reputation as an adroit diplomatist. The luster of the arbitration treaty and the prospective Venezuelan settlement together with the correspondence nt, together with the correspondence tiement, together with the correspondence on the Turkish question set forth in the time book this week, has caused a decided change in the tiliude toward the premier assumed by his opponents. The fact is now well established that Lord Salisbury was the one was brodget about the understanding between the pew-

Conscript Law Gives Trouble. Advices from Belgium show a seriou state of affairs there arising from the conscription law, which provides that every man who has completed his nineteenth year is liable to military service for eight years, of which, however, two-thirds are allowed, as a rule, on furlough. An important clause of the law provides that a conscript may chase a substitute, and it is this clause that causes the trouble. Wealthy young men are cole to purchase exemption, which they do in large numbers, exemption, which they down take humbers, by getting a substitute, and thus, which cally speaking, the whole military service of the comitry falls upon those who are least dualified by their domestic duties to perform it. Great discontent prevails against the system, which takes young men from their employment, and it is an attained that trouble will follow the drawdelpated that trouble will follow the draw ng of the 1897 conscripts in February.

The government has received informa-tion that an organized resistance is being prepared, in which the socialists, who include a very large proportion of the work-ingmen of the country, are taking a most active part. The young men lable to the conscription are resolved not to serve, and all the labor leagues have promised to back them up in their resistance to the gov-

Consolidated Will Spend $35,000 for the Improvement.

THE LINE TO BE EXTENDED

Company To Improve Its Tracks to Clark's University and Will Extend the Line a Mile Further Into the Country-Cars Are Running 6,000 Miles a Day Now.

The Atlanta Consolidated Street Railway Company will improve its track and roadbed on South Pryor street, beyond Georgla avenue to Clark university.

The company has just made a contract with a big rail concern of Pennsylvania by which the latter is to furnish 100 tons of first class 70-pound steel rails, the best that can be made. The rails will replace the old worn out light-weight ones now on

The contract is one of the biggest made by the company in some time and it represents an immense outlay of money to improve the system. Vice President Woodruff, of the Consolidated, stated this morning that his company will put down better rails from time to time and that the extensive system of the road is being constantly improved.

With the completion of the work of laying the new steel rails the line from the city to Clark university will then be one of the best car lines in the country. There is already a first class heavy rail line on Pryor street from the city to Georgia avenue, the tracks having only been laid in the last year or two, and the extension of the heavy rails will make it possible for the company to put on better and fas-ter and safer schedules to Clark university. The rails ordered by the company wil ost about $35,000.

It has been understood for some time that the Consolidated wanted to extend its line for a mile further out on the Jones road, and that this deal which has been made is only a forerunner to the conammation of the plan of extension.

The tracks of the street car company will cross the East Tennessee tracks at Clark university and will then be able to furnish the residents of that section with a first-class car service.

The work on this new track will be commenced within the next thirty days and as soon as the line is relaid it will in all probability be extended. Another interesting question in connection with the street car service is the number of miles which the local cars run daily.

Mr. Woodruff, vice president and general manager of the company, estimates that at the present time the cars are making fully 6,000 miles daily, while in the summer time they will make at least 1,000 miles

SUCCESSOR TO LEO XIII.

Cardinal Svampa, Archbishop of Bo logna, May Be the Next Occupant of the Vatican.

Rome, January 23 .- The indifferent health of the pope has caused a considerable stir in the Sacred college with respect to the choice of his successor. The situation may be summed up as follows, on the authority of a prelate of the highest rank:

If a vacancy should now arise in the papacy there would be a great confusion of names. There are no strong parties in the Sacred college, but there are, on the contrary, many personal ambitions. Probable at the last hour the cardinals would divide themselves into three groups—the diplo-matic cardinals, the bishop cardinals and the foreign cardinals. The second groun would be the strongest, and if it should archbishop of Milan, or Cardinal Svampa

No Danger at Present of the City Offices Being Moved.

SOME CHANGES TO BE MADE The Chamber of Commerce Will Make

All the Necessary Arrangements Needed-Will Not Lose the Big Rent, Interesting to Other, Property Owoers Who May Make Bids.

It has been announced that the city council would advertise for bids for new offices for the city officials.

Behind the move to secure new quarters there seems to be an interesting story. In the first place there does not appear to be the least possible chance of the offices being moved from their present location. If it was not so august a body which is making the move the whole affair might be called an official bluff. The city fathers wish some change made in the interior arrangement of the present city hall and it will be necessary to get the chamber of commerce to agree to ex pend a few dollars for the work.

It is well known that the chamber of commerce is receiving a very handsome rent for the part of the building occupied by the city and there will be some very great concessions made before the city will be permitted to vacate the premises.

When the council committee on public buildings and grounds met and decided to new city offices there were some suspicious conferences between certain city officials which indicated that a move for "some changes was about to be made and that the chamber of commerce was to be the objective point." It was remarked so the reporters could hear that better quarters should be had. And then it was remarked so that reporters could not hear that 'there wouldn't be any trouble about bring ng the chamber of commerce to terms."

Now all this may be an interesting story to those who own central property and have a notion that there is a chance o get a pull on the rental outlay of the Decision of Judge Speer.

Attorney General Terrell received this morning a mandate from the supreme court of the United States affirming the decision of Judge Speer, of the Southern circuit and districts courts of Georgia, in regard to the Central railroad tax cases.

This decision is one that has interested the railroad people no little, and it is of more than passing interest to the municipalities and counties along the main stem of the Central railroad.

The case was first argued, years ago, before the supreme court of Georgia when Warner, McCoy and Brown were on the bench. Justice Warner held that under the charter of 1839 the road was not liable to local taxation. Justices Brown and McCoy dissented, however, but in his argument before the supreme court Colonel Terrell says that he found Justice Warner's opinion haal to get around.

NICARAGUA CANAL QUESTION.

Minister Rodriquez Submits a Report to Secretary Olney.

Washington, January 23.—The following is in substance the protest of the greater republic of Central America on the Nicaraguan canal question, proposed by Min-ister Rodriguez and transmitted by Secretary Olney to the senate: As several bills relating to the construction of an inter-oceanic canal through Nicaragua have been for some time pending before both houses of congress, his government recently instructed him to examine them and make, under certain conditions, suitable representatives to the secretary of state. He says he has examined the various bills and finds that they are at variance in matters of detail with the stipulations of the contract of April 24, 1887, between Nicaragua and the canal company.

He then asserts that the bills before congress effect a transfer to the government of the United States, making this govern-Is the quickest and most satisfacment the absolute owner. He points out other facts at variance with the contract. Senor Rodriguez calls attention to the fact that the contract called for the com says "that term expired a long time ago, but the company, notwithstanding the most earnest solicitation, has made no pretense of meeting that obligation." By the plan involved in the new form the present company is extinguished and nothing remains of it, in its relations with the enterprise, save the shadow of a per-sonality represented by a vote in the board of directors of eleven members.

Finally it is observed that, while the bills ontravene and set at naught stipulations of the contract, they do not state whether the remaining ones still remain in force or not, although among these latter there are very many which are of great import-ance to Nicaragua in particular and to Ceneral America in general. Mr. Rodriguez says he does not question the good faith of the authors of the various bills and adds that he is impelled the course which he is pursuing with the hope of protecting just rights. The documents close in the following words:

"The government of the United States should come to a direct understanding of the subject on the basis of the Zavala-Frelinghuysen treaty with such modificaions as may be agreed upon, and endeavor ing to reach a just arrangement with the Maritime Canal Company, of Nicaragua, so that it may renounce a concession whose conditions it is unable to fulfill."

BOY BURGLARS OF DARKTOWN

The Detectives Unearth the Many Burglaries of the Past Week.

THEY ARE IN DURANCE VILE

The Detectives Make Quick Work of the Case and Will Now Recover Most of the Stolen Goods-How the Youthful I urglars Were Spotted by the Officers.

The city detectives have unearthed all the mysterious burglaries which have occurred during the past week in Atlanta. The gang of burglars is now in the police station and much of the stolen goods have been recovered. Vesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock two of the detectives found a small negro trying to dispose of a box of tobacco. He was taken to police headquarters and in a few minutes ne had confessed, and one hour later the whole gang of seven had been taken in custody.

The names of these young thieves are Clark Hightower, Henry Gay, Clifford Soloman, John Evans, Tom Brown, Jim Sheppard and Lewis Pope. They all hail from Darktown and their ages range from ten to fifteen years.

In the past week numerous burglaries were committed in various portions of the city, and in nearly every case the loss small. The detectives suspected from the facts in the cases that the thieves were boys, and their suspicion proved correct. detective' room this morning was turned into a confession chamber. First one boy began to lay all the stealing on another, and this was met with a counter charge. It did not take long for all the facts to come out and the detectives were satis-fied they had caught the great band of mid-night raiders who had been "doing" At-

After confessing the boys began to tell where the booty was secreted and by to-night the officers will have recovered most of the stolen goods.

The Darktown negroes have been giving the detectives much trouble of late, and it has got to be so that nearly every act of stealing or burglary can be traced to the denizens of that lawless neighborhood. The capture of the youthful burglars is considered a most excellent piece of work on the part of the detective force.

NORTHEN ON

the State of Georgia.

He Thinks That an Impetus Will Be Given Immigration 'if Times Improve Under the New Administration-Some of His Plans Have Recently Failed for Cause.

Just at this time there is a widespread interest in the subject of immigration in Georgia. The people of the state are making an especial effort to encourage immigration and many sections of the state have been largely benefited and built up recently by the coming of the investors and prospectors from the north. The severe blizzards and unfortunate conexisting in the far northwest have caused an exodus of no small proportions toward the south, and Georgia is getting her share of the new comers. That many parts of the state will be populated by immigrants during the next few months there seems to be no doubt. To ascertain the status of the situation and the prospects, The Evening Constitution has secured and presents below an interview with ex-Governor William J. Northen, who is at the head of the Georgia Immigration and Investment Bureau, and who is interested in immigration work probably more than any man in the state

What Governor Northen Says. In answer to questions Governor Norther

said:

"My business, in many particulars, has been quite satisfactory, though I have not accomplished all I had hoped would follow the promises of restored and improved financial conditions.

"From some such cause I have just lost the sale of a large body of land, something more than 13,000 acres, upon which I had reason to believe the deal was pracycally closed. I had entered into all the uctails of arrangement, and discussed and agreed upon all the plans of development, with the prospective purchasers, so that I was promising myself great good to the state, in that my plans for village farms were highly indorsed by the parties proposing to buy. These parties had thoroughly inspected the land, and we had gone so far as to select several locations for such villages spected the land, and we had gone so far as to select several locations for such village settlements, and entered upon many of the details of arrangement.

"I was, however, unexpectedly informed, Just a few days ago, by Messrs. Townsend & Howser, my Chicago associates, who had worked up this sale, that the deal was suddenly called off, and that our trade had finally failed. How much of this is to be attributed to recent financial conditions of the west, I am not able to say. I am quite assured, however, if business condidence could ever be restored, and business conditions made normal, we would soon get all the good people into Georgia we need. This opinion is based not simply upon my personal observation, but from a large number of letters I receive from my representatives throughout the western and eastern states.

How the People Are Secured. "Townsend & Howser, my Chicago representatives, are active, energetic, hustling young men, and they have collected quite a lot of good people, who were awaiting the purchase of the property we recently had in hand, and who stood ready, at once, to make settlement in the state."

"Will you now lose these people from the state?"

cannot hope to settle them just now as I have no place so well prepared fo them. We will, however, bring them later I have three localities in view, for such plan of village farms as I have alluded to but neither of these places are sufficiently advanced in preparation for location and

"Would you mind saying where you will

"Would you mind saying where you will finally locate these people?"
"That must depend largely upon their own selection. The lands originally selected were upon the Southern System, below Macon. I now have others that can be made equally well adapted to their purposes. One of these lies upon the Georgia road, one upon the Atlanta and West Point, and the other upon the Central."
"My plans are to be again further delayed, in that the lands must now be paid for by the settlers themselves, whereas in the original sale contemplated, the entire lands were to be purchased by gentlemen of large means, who contemplated more indulgence to individual settlers than our Georgia land owners can afford to grant. These negotiations, however, I hope to be able to meet."

Many Want To Come South.

"Do you find many people wanting to

"Do you find many people wanting to come south?

"Very large numbers. I have many letters making inquiries about the state, and asking for literature. Almost every man adds that many of his neighbors would come to Georgia, if the conditions here are found to suit them, and they were able to realize upon their hodings.

"You must understand that farmers at the west, and indeed, farmers at the east as well, have suffered from a series of crop failures, and that they have not been able to realize the value of their products, and have found but limited market for what little they could spare. Not many of them, therefore, are in position to make purchases of land at the south until business gets better."

"You are, however, doing some business and locating some people?"

"Oh, yes! Just within the past ten days I have located Mr. E. M. White, of Chicago, at Austell: Mr. Solomon Walborm, an excellent man from Van Wert, O., at La-Grange: a German family near Newnan who are the prospectors for twenty or twenty-five other families, who will come to Georgia next fall, if these people are pleased, and Mr. Charles White, of Duluth. Minn. near Greensboro. Mr. Hubbell, of Minnesota, is now prospecting near the lands purchased by Mr. White, and will probably buy.

"Nearly all the people who are coming to me now are sent by my northwestern associates. This pban I find operates much better than advertising locally from this office. My northwestern associates advertise locally, as they are easily accessible to prospective homeseekers, and they can personally furnish all the necessary information about the state, far better than I could through correspondence. Under this arrangement, the homeseeker generally starts for my office, bringing a letter from my associates without ever having written me himself."

"How large a territory do you cover by such representation?"

"Beginning at Indianapolis, I go as far to the northwest as Grand Forks, N. D. Huron and Cornesti

"How large a territory do you cover by such representation?"
"Beginning at Indianapolis. I go as far to the northwest as Grand Forks, N. D., Huron and Yankton, S. D., and Council Bluffs, Ia. I cover the territory between these places at all desirable points. Most of these people keep in constant correspondence with me, and they are advertising the state thoroughly. The results of their work, I am sure, will bring many people to the state, if the incoming administration will do what has been promised the people. Crop failures consequent upon drought and bot winds, together with excessive winter climate and low prices for products, will drive multitudes of people from the western states into the south, whenever they are enabled to obtain the money to buy land."

HERE'S A GOOD IMMIGRATION | OFFICE FOR YOU

He Tells of the Effort to Build Up A Georgian May Be United States Pension Agent.

Office Can Go to Any One of Thirteen States, but Has Always Been Held by an East Tennesseean-The Stir That Hoke Smith Caused-Georgia Clerks Are There-Something of the Office and Its Work.

There is a federal office in Knoxville which some good Georgian is as much entitled to hold as a Tennesseean. It is the office of United States pension agent for thirteen states, which includes every state in the south. Although the office itself cannot be removed the agent can come from either of the thirteen states which are embraced in the payroll. It has been the history of the office from time immemorial that it has been held by an East Tennesseean, and generally one from the second congressional district, in which Knoxville is located.

At the present time there are something like a half dozen applicants for the position, all of whom wish to succeed Major Daniel A. Carpenter, the incumbent. The office is worth something like $4,000 a year, and about $1,800,000 is paid out in pensions quarterly to the residents in the states which are covered by the office. A large number of these payments go to East Tennesseeans, many of them come to Georgia and others to all parts of the south. They are for services in the late civil war, in the Mexican and Indian wars, while on the rolls will be found the names of the widows of three revolutionary sol-While the office has been held by an East Tennessee agent nearly all the time, the majority of the clerks have also been East rennesseeans, they having been selected by the agent after his appointment and the names presented to the secretary of the interior for confirmation, and it was not until the appointment of Hoke Smith, of Atlanta, to a cabinet portfolio that the precedent regarding the clerks was broken. One day about a year ago Major Carpen ter received a communication from the secretary of the interior asking him for a list of all the clerks in his office. The list was promptly forwarded to Washing on and in a few days was returned with he blue pencil drawn across the of four of the clerks. A letter of explanation followed saying that four Georgians had been selected to fill these places and to install them in office when they arrived in Knoxville.

This caused a protest to go up from the newspapers of Tennessee regarding the act of the secretary, but it was to no avail and the gentlemen named by Mr. Smith ted into office when they a: rived at Knoxville.

They were William McKinley Cobb, of Athens, a brother of Thomas R. R. Cobb, of this city; John A. Barnes, of Augusta, the representative of Richmond county in the legislature two years ago: Frank Cren haw, of Griffin and W. D. Williams, of Atlanta.

They were given positions in the office and made good clerks.

'The Private Secretary" Comes Monday and Tuesday at the Grand.

The Grand will present to its patrons next Monday and Tuesday for three per-formances Gillette's great masterpiece, "The Private Secretary," with Edwin Fravers and the strongest cast of comedi ans ever seen in the play, including Harry Dull and Frank Cotton, in the roles of the secretary and the elder Mr. Cattermole The Louisville Courier-Journal of Septem ber 22d says:

'The Private Secretary' wears wonder full well. In many ways it is by far the best of the many comedies adopted from foreign sources in recent years. It is admirably constructed and its complications are se skillfully devised and its action so continuous that the audience is kept in constant state of merriment and the laughter never subsides for a moment. Mr. Travers plays the part of the scapegrace nephew who masquerades as a curate in a most satisfactory fashion, and the acting of Mr. Frank Cotton as the flery East Indian was unquestionably the best portraya of the character that has ever been of the character that has ever been seen in Louisville, while the work of Harry Dull in the title role reminded one very forcibly of Mr. Gillette. Taken as a whole the performance, including the musical numbers, was excellent, and an audience of good size was well pleased.'

Eugenie Blair Coming. Eugenie Blair, who comes to the Grand on the 25th, has been winning all sorts of golden opinions from the southern press. In fact, her southern tour has been covation and the press and public harbeen unanimous in their commendation. She thought she could give a new *endition of the trying character of Lady Isabel and Mme. Vine in Mrs. Wood's beautiful play of "East Lynne" and that she has been eminently successful one has only to read what the critics have said: "East Lynne" has always been dear to the hearts of all theatergoers and in the hands of Engenie Biair it has blossomed out a fresh and beautifal creation. The Rheubottom mystery is now solved The strange action of the "silent prison er" at Fulton county jail is accounted for. It's a case of out of the frying pan into the fire. If he is dismissed on the charge of cheating and swindling he will be immediately arrested by a deputy marshal of the United States, charged with violating the postal laws.

If he is sentenced to the state camps it will be only for a few years. When his term expires a representative of the United States will be on hand to again conduct him to prison, and a long term in the United States penitentiary awaits Rheubottom, then, is aware of the fact that if he lets his case come before the state court it matters not what the decision is he seals his future fate. It seems that the silent prisoner of Fulton county jail prefers to spend the rest of his days there, than to be the prisoner of "Uncle

One of the most active and consistent workers for the cause of labor unionism in Atlanta is Pat H. Moore, ex-president of the Atlanta Federation of Trades, and now in the United States revenue service. He is in close touch with the labor me of the county, and he says they are delighted with The Evening Constitution's labor and secret order column. Mr. Moore sends the following letter, in which some interesting suggestions are

Pat Moore on Labor.

Labor Editor Evening Constitution: If what you say is true, namely, that "the new paper will be a friend to the working men of the city," then I bespeak for it a ccrdial welcome. Samuel Gompers once said, "Labor builds the palace and the press illuminates it;" so proceed to start your lights. Having known vou personally for a number of years, I take pleasure in expressing the hope that your future course may be marked with the same consistency and honesty of purpose that in the past has earned you the respect of the labor men of the city.

As to a subject that will interest labor locally, I am sure there is no lack of ma-terial with which to draw upon. While there is much encouragement to be found in the present condition of labor nere, there is yet room for a great deal of im-

To begin with, our method of organization lacks congeniality. I do not mean that our individual members are indifferent or unsociable; far from it; but I do say that in the exclusiveness of our organizations we are simply severing the cords that ought to bind us closer together. True, we have in the Atlanta Federation of Trades an excellent central body, whose chief function in the bringing together of delegates of all local branches, and thus form one strong chain with which to bind the orders closer.

So far so good; but does this commingling of delegates accomplish all that ought to be done along this line? Personally, I don't think so. Delegates of any sort are not infallible, and are very often forgetful of their reports back to their respective rganizations. To remedy this by the offer of a suggestion is the object of this letter. Why not have the organizations supplement the work of the federation by setting apart one night each month, or each quarter, to be designated "fraternal night" on which occasion, say, the journeymentallors, by invitation, visit the typographical union? Let us presume that the typos have gone in session half an hour earlier: gone through the order of busines nd thrown the meeting open to the journeymen tailors having cards of membership out the good that would come from such meeting. The interchange of ideas, reports of progress, suggestions of consti-tutional amendments, proposed lagislation, entertainment of general organizers, work of conventions and a hundred other ques tions of more than usual importance e discussed with both pleasure and profit all parties concerned

Such a movement, Mr. Editor, would, in my opinion, prove beneficial if it resulted in nothing more than eliminating this Feachtree exclusiveness that now pervades our organizations, and I trust it will be my pleasure to see the experiment tried at an early date. Respectfully yours, PAT H. MOORE.

Ternessee Union Label Bill. Representative Orchid, of Shelby county Tennessee will soon introduce an impo

The bill was prepared by the legislative committee of the Trades and Labo cil of Nashville and has attracted considerable attention from the working men of Tennessee and Georgia, especially those en gaged in the line of business to which it extends. So far it has been widely indorsed and will doubtless pass and become a law without any great trouble or opposition The bill provides for the filing of trade narks or labels, which will be recorded, and when this is done there will be a penalty to be paid by any one found and convicted of violating the law.

The Third and First Grades Formed a Clique Against Second-Cox Is of the Second Grade-He Won Out After a Hard Fight-Johnson and Harris the Other Nominees.

Master Albert Cox, of the second grade, was elected yesterday to represent the Boys' High school in the Atlanta baseball

For over three weeks the boys of the high chool have been trying to select a representative. It was one of the warmest contests that have ever taken place in the city, municipal elections not excepted. The third grade of this school, being the highest and most representative, thought it should have the privilege of sending the school delegate, but the second grade obfected to this. Perdue Johnson, of the third grade, was nominated three weeks ago, but though parliamentary technicalities the election was postponed. The second grade nominated Albert Cox, Ir., while the first grade put Mr. Lucius Harris the II in the field. The election yesterday was not only exciting, but it took the united efforts of the officers of the Alciphronian Literary Society and of Principal Slaton to carry the election

When Mr. Cox was elected the second grade, which is in the majority, went wild. So much enthusiasm was never before shown in the Boys' High school. Mr. Cox received the congratulations of the entire school after the election. When the Atlanta baseball club was first organized for this season, Mr. W. T. Moyers, the president, thought it a good idea to get the boys interested. He gave to the Boys' High school the privilege of having a director in the club. This direct tor was to be elected by the popular vote of the school and will be recognized in the club meetings as a full-fledged member. Albert Cox, Jr., son of Hon. Albert Cox

A Cosmopolitan City.

Few cities in America of Atlanta's size have such a small foreign population, and yet there are few with a citizenship hailing from so many different and distant

Every country in Europe is represented here, and also India, China and Africa. If you want information about a city or town of any note in other countries, ou can always find among our citizens a man who has lived there at some period

A newspaper can, at a moment's notice, find men in Atlanta who can give all the ocal points about the war in Cuba, the plague in Bombay or political, social, business and religious conditions in the capital cities of the old world.

There are men here whose ties of relationship and commercial interests bind them to every known locality on the map, in every zone inhabited by man.

Atlanta is a miniature Cosmopolis, but with it all she is thoroughly an American city, imbued with the spirit and possessing the pluck and enterprise which have started and built up the most progressive enters on this continent.

Even our foreigners are more American than the natives of some of the northern and western cities. The first lesson they learn when they settle here is to pull towether for Atlanta!

The Fathers of Atlanta.

The death of Mr. J. H. Porter not only sorrow to a large circle of friends here and elsewhere, but it reminds us that he Grim Reaper has been busy during recent years among our older citizens-the sturdy and public-spirited pioneers who may be called the Fathers of Atlanta. It saddens us to see the old guard dwin

Long may they live, and long may their posterity!

Against Garbling.

Many public speakers, preachers and urnalists have been made to suffer unustry because garbled extracts from their utterances and writings were made and One of the victims protests in The Bos ton Globe against garbling. He says:

"I speak on an average 9,000 words an hour and not less than 15,000 words in two services each day. Thus, with newspaper space for only 1,000 words daily, a blind space for only 1,000 words daily, a blind man can see where my critics get in on me and it is them I am after and not the papers or reporters.

"For my critics to say that I indiscriminately abuse pastors and churches and use slang and vulgarity that cannot be reproduced in public print, and for them to howl over sentences snatched here and there from my sermons which they refuse to hear, is simply to make asses of them-selves in the eyes of those who give me a fair hearing.

"If they are just to me in their criti-cisms they are very severe on the refined and cultured audiences that pack the People's temple daily.

An Honest Man And His Career:

"Honest Jack" was what his friends called him, and he was very proud of it.

Jack worked his way from an humble elerkship up to a business of his own, and his fair dealing and promptness in paying his debts made him very popular.

"His word is as good as his bond-his check is the same as gold! That is the same as gold:

That is the way people talked about him in his own town and elsewhere. His church felt that it could not do without him—he was such a cheerful and generous giver. Jack used to thank the Lord for giving him so many good and loyal friends, and he felt that he never could do enough for them.

The newspapers frequently suggested that he would make a good mayor or an excellent governor, but he begged his supporters to wait awhile.

Of course, they waited. They always have great consideration for a man's feellings in such matters.

Some of the men who were anxious to elect him to a high office occasionally needed an indorser on their notes. They got what they wanted—"Honest Jack" was glad to accommodate his friends, and he sympathized with them when their misfortunes made it impossible for them to meet their obligations.

Sometimes, when Jack read of the com plete ruin of p business man he would shake his head doubtfully.
"Something wrong," he would say.

"Now, take my case. If reverses should come, my friends would never rest until come, my friends would never they set me on my feet again.' He prospered for many years, and was blessed in many ways. He had good health, and a bright, lovable family. He was past middle age when his bad luck came. His collections were slow, his investments had not turned out well, and his creditors were impatient.

But he was hopeful and confident. He sacrificed his property, paid out his last dollar, and told his wife that it was all

It was their busy season, however, and he did not see as much of them as usual. Having very little to do, he gave a good deal of his time to church affairs, but his suggestions did not seem to meet with as much favor as formerly. In desperation he went one day to a man who had owed him borrowed money for a long time, and asked him to repay him. A Lay of Longing. Q, to be down on the river

Where the wine red waters quiver, Where the bamboo vines are twining And the yaupon berries shining; O, to see the sunbeams slanting Through dim aisles and hear the chanting Of the whippoorwils at vespers Mingled with the south wind whispers

O, for one more day of dreaming Where the snow-white sands are gleam And to hear the pine trees sighing Softly while the day is dying: Just to watch the nodding rushes And to hear the drowsy thrushes All their softest notes attuning To the songs the winds are crooning.

O, to hear those matchless measures

Mingled with my boyhood pleasures,

And to taste that sweet regretting

As I watch the glad sun setting:

O, to hear loved voices calling When the gray twilight is falling, Voices that are hushed forever In that land beyond the river! Gone are all the winsome graces That I knew in friendly faces. And their memories grow fonder As afar from them I wander: For the world is growing colder.

Every year I'm growing older,

Soon the hand of fate shall sever

Recalling Happy Days.

MONTGOMERY M. FOLSOM.

The other night I met up with Ashton DeLoach, a brother of my genial friend. A. A. DeLoach, at whose home we met for an evening in social converse. I had not seen Ashton since the day. about five years ago, when we enjoyed a watermelon feast at the town of Sycanore, away down in the wiregrass.

Ashton had wandered off down there t make his fortune running a shingle mill and was so fortunate as to meet a voung lady there who proved to be of more value than many shingle mills and he was reveling in that contentment which only the piney woods man can really and truly enloy and appreciate.

My mind reverted to the rock house, a queer natural phenomenon near Sycamore, and the good time we had that day. It was one of those bright and blue-eyed days in summer when the soft southern skies bend lovingly low and a fellow feels like piroueting around and doing as he darned pleases.

The rock house is a hole in the ground about seventy-five feet deep and it is as cool as the welcome extended by your rich relations when you call on them with your elbows out. In the little caverns that extend around the bottom there are nooks where the rain has never fallen nor has there a sunbeam strayed since the mighty cataclysm occurred that caused the bottom to fall out and the top to fall in forming the rock house.

I am afraid to say how big the watermelons were, for I have a reputation to sustain and I am very careful to guard against accidents since I had my reputation half-soled. But they were so large that it was a wonder to me how we ever got out of that hole after we had devoured the fruit. After we had told a few mild falsehoods and smoked a pipe apiece. I went on a tour of exploration and I found some of the most beautiful ferns I ever laid eyes upon there in those secluded nooks unvisited by It was a day of delight and it affected my memory to such an extent that when I had got far enough away to talk about it without fear of contradiction I attempted to describe the good time we had. Well, sir, Ashton told me the other night that he had letters from all parts of the country asking for seed of that remarkable variety that it would give a nigger the cramp colic to thump one and that they had a natural burglar alarm attachmen that was proof against white marauders. The town of Sycamore is so named from an aged sycamore tree that grows in the midst thereof and the fowls of the air have found shelter in its branches for more than half a century. The town belonged originally, to Captain Henderson. When he was a young man his future father-in-law lived not far away and the young lady who afterwards became Mrs. Henderson occasionally visited the Hendersons. On one occasion she paid them visit and, as the custom in that country is witch and after she had gone young Henderson picked it up where she had dropped it and stuck it down in the soft soil. Much to his surprise and delight the switch took root and soon put forth green ouds. He took care to protect it from the hogs and cattle and in a few years it had grawn to be a considerable tree. From that day till this it has been a andmark for miles around. When the government located a star route postoffice there it was known as Sycamore. When the Georgia Southern and Florida railroad was built through there the town retained its name. Both Captain and Mrs. Henderson are growing old now, for it has been nearly fifty years since they set up housekoeping at the old homestead. They have seen per ple come and go and many familiar faces have passed into the shadow land, but the old sycamore tree remains to remind them of the romance of their earlier days. The old tree always appealed to me. have seen it before the flying cinders from the rushing locomotive disfigured the sheeny brightness of its green leaves. I sat under its shade one day in the long ago when I had started out to see what fate had in store for me. I was on my way to Americus by way of the old Union road, that remarkable thoroughfare that is so well known to all who ever had oc casion to travel through southern Georgia before the railroad days.

I was driving a mule team then to pay

Far down the street for many hours had been seen, first, dimly as a speck on the horizon, a strange wagon, which grad-ually identified itself with the one describliving that far away and coming into town as he did, marks him as a most brilliant example of patience and perseverance, for by close calculation, saying his home was only twenty miles away, almost a hundred hours must have been consumed in coming from it to the heart of Atlanta.

The many tales of the ancient mode of transportation, with which we are all familiar, are chiefly curious to us by reason of the slowness which people in the former days seemed to be satisfied with. But the romantic pace of the stage coach beside the speed of this Georgian's journey was street-this was the merest accident-and moved along in dignified slowness. Now, most drivers have learned from ex-perience the action of the laws of momen-tum and inertia, but this driver had had little experience in their working on an as-phalted street. And if he did he probably would not have let the knowledge affect his manner of driving. His rural master was not all that the ox was puiling. Marketable vegetables of many sorts were on the cart. Its heaviness made up for the lack of speed, and when he came near this part of the street he made no effort to hold up; to turn out he would not have for a moment considered, until it was too late.

He might have thought of a stop had he not been so determined not to be con-fused by the babble of voices, and refused to believe the shouts of warning that wen from the angry workmen were meant him. On he came until a just completed piece of work was spoiled, until his right wheel was deeply implanted in the soft, warm asphalt and many hours of work destroyed for the street laborers and much created for them and himself. The ox went cheerfully ahead until the hard edge of the old asphalt, which was now several inches higher than the level of the wheel, was reached and then with stubborness worthy of a mule, refused to even make an effort against the odds he now had to contend with.

The foreman swore openly, the negroes under their breath and the countryman imagined, in some vague way, it was all a game that was especially prepared for rural visitors.

But much muscular effort, much hones sweat, many impolite remarks were now in order. The iron smoothers, inappropriate as their weight made them for such services, were used as levers. A horse belonging to the city was enlisted into service and the combined efforts of everything in sight, save the ox, failed for one solid hour to move that cart.

Then at the end of that time with one

The stock market showed a reactionar, temper due apparently to the apathy of the important interests which encouraged bears sell with more confidence.

The failure of London and room speculators to respond to the announcement of government Union Pacific agreement was something of a damper upon sentment. The coal stocks showed early weakness but recovered partially.

The international stocks lost ground.
The market closed heavy and unsettled.
Government bonds were unchanged and railway bonds were irregular.

LOCAL BONDS AND STOCKS.

Local Review.

The public was treated to another post-ponement of the Atlanta and West Point railroad receivership case yesterday, but these delays are dished out in weekly quantities and do not hurt as badly as if the cessation of active fighting was for longer periods. It is in order for all the suffering ones to pray that one week more will see the end of as senseless a piece of litiga-tion as ever had consideration in a Georgia court. Trading in Atlanta and West Point securities is practically at a stand-still, and the same can be said of securities of other roads.

Georgia raliroad stock is offered today at 160 against sales a week ago at 163 to 164; Southwestern is offered at 92, though it sold inside of a week at 93; Augusta and Savannah is also off fully 2 per cent. There is no reason for these declines except apprehension created by the Atlanta and West Point suit. Each of these properties is just as sound and fully as competent to earn and pay dividends as they were before the litigation began, but faith for any corresponding time since the 1st of October. We look for a better market with better prices on apples throughout the remainder of the season. Orarges also continue to show reaction. The present light supply is being followed by stiff advances all over the country. Very few Californias have been received since the holidays, but will now be han dled principally, as they are much sweeter and in every particular better developed than the previous arrivals. The charge grew out of her business tolations with some people who charged her with having had a hand in the loss of $10,-000 worth of diamonds.

On December 10th Mrs. DeLabarre nad James C. Hart arrested by grabbing him by the coat talls on Broadway and hanging onto him till a policeman came. She went to Hart on June, 1895, to borrow $10,000 on a large amount of jewelry and diamonds for another woman. Hart took jewels out to have them appraised.

He never came back. He confessed to theft.

Mrs. DeLabarre was at one time s retary of the swindler Dutton.

COUNTY JAIL.

We visited the jail in a body and found everything as satisfactory as present quarters would allow.

PENSIONERS

Our examination of the various pension rolls satisfied us that all parties receiv-ing pensions were just entitled to the same.

EXPERT ACCOUNTANT.

We appointed two expert accountants, namely: Samuel H. Askew and A. C. Smith, to examine the books and records of all the county officers, at a total compensation of $500 for both accountants. These accountants will report to the grand jury spring term, 1897.

PATRIOTIG GOUNGILMEN.

Atlanta has eight patriotic council memers. They will serve the city this year at salary of just one-half that received by

Aldermen Rice and Mitchell and Councilmen Camp, Dorsey, Lumpkin, Howard, Stephens and Peters get only $300 for what they do for the city government, while sit-ting with them are the following council members who get just double that amount: Aldermen Hirsch, Tolbert, Woodward and Dimmock, and Councilmen Barnes, Maddox, Adamson, Morris, Thompson, Hutchnson and Culberson.

The reason of this discrimination is that the act of the legislature, which was recommended by the council and the mayor, reduced, thereafter, the pay of all members of the council to $300 a year. The law could not be retroactive, therefore could not affect the salaries of the members of council elected before the statute was enacted.

The $300 men are all newly elected mem bers. The salary of the city fathers, how-ever, has nothing to do with their labor for the city and the cheap men have already started out to try to do as much work as the $600 ones.

Co respondence Instruction in Optics.

It is the spontaneous testimony of our graduates that we builded better than we knew when we laid the foundations of our "Correspondence Course in Optics." This course of instruction has opened up a new and successful business field to a large "cumber of young men and has enabled many an unsuccessful optician to place his business on a paying basis. held conversation with a number of prisoners. We found the sleeping apartments in excellent condition, everything being clean, neat and orderly. Each bed was furnished with sufficient blankets for the most severe weather. The rooms were well heated by five or six large stoves. The hospital was found in a most excellent condition, well warmed, clean and the inmates all report good treatment and nutritious food. There were only seven patients in the hospital and two of these were sent from another camp for treatment. In talking with the convicts, they all spoke of the kind treatment received from the superintendent, Mr. Casey. As to clothes they all appeared to be provided with sufficient clothing to protect them from the most severe weather. There are in all 237 prisoners. The Fulton county grand jury made its presentments to Judge J. H. Lumpkin, of

First, the courthouse property, 278.9 feet by 185.6 feet, situated on the corner of Fryor and Hunter streets. We value the lot at $140,000; the improvements, $75.000.

Second, the old jail property, 187.7 feet by 120 feet, corner Fraser and Fair streets.

First, the courthouse, with furniture, fixtures, etc., for $60,700.

Second, the central barracks, near Bellwood, for $20,000.

Third, the almshouse, fixtures, etc., $4,300.

Fourth, the jailhouse, etc., for $5,000. Total, $90,000.

REPAIRS, ETC.

We recommend that the county commissioners have the apartments of Tax Collector Stewart enlarged as indicated to your committee by the collector, which will cost about $500.

We also recommend that the basement courtroom be rekalsomined and painted. Also the superior courtroom and the first division city courtroom need like repairs.

We found the courthouse well and cleanly kept by its efficient janitor, Mr. John Corrigan.

We found the central barracks, near Bellwood, in a fair state of repair, with a good supply of water, through our new waterworks system, for which we commend our county commissioners and Superintendent Donaldson.

We also find the almshouse buildings in a good state of repair, and well kept under the superintendency of Dr. Hope.

OF PROPERTY. OF PROPERTY.

We find that the West Peachtree stockade and the Humphries street stockade have both been abandoned as permanent camps for prisoners, and that the present in property will be vacated on the completion of the new jail. Therefore we recommend that the county commissioners tell the above named three pleces of property as soon as reasonable prices can be obtained, and that the proceeds be placed in the county treasurer.

obtained, and that the proceeds be placed in the county treasurer.

We find that the county is carrying insurance on its buildings to the amount of $90,000. We recommend this amount be reduced $50,000, and as far as practical be placed with home companies; and it is the judgment of this body that the insurance on the almshouse property is inadequate, and the insurance on the courthouse annex.

S well as that of the new barracks and all, should be diminished.

ALMSHOUSE. We find the almshouse properly cortains eighty-five inmates. We found the inmates in good health, considering age and decreptude, cheerful and contented, well fed and comfortably situated. Their apprements were cleanly. All the inmates spoke kindly of the superintendent. Dr. R. L. Hope. This institution is doing a great work for our worthy poor and should continue to receive proper-encouragement from the county commissioners.

ON JUSTICE OF THE PEACE DOCKET. We made a thorough and conscientious examination of every docket (with the exception of Justice G. H. Culverson, of the footh Georgia malitia district, whose dockets were destroyed by the burning of his residence on October 20, 1896) and found all accurately, and in the majority of cases, neatly kept. In some very few instances we have made suggestions to the justices in regard to keeping a correct history of every case coming before them, and they have cheerfully promised to comply.

COUNTY CONVICT CAMPS. camp in the county was visited, found everything in fairly good camp. The camp on West Peachtree street is not in as good condition as we would like. There are no water works, and consequently no sewerage. We recommend that water closets be placed in each of the barracks, and means be taken to better the West Peachtree street barracks.

We made close examination into everything, questioned the prisoners closely, and are glad to report that they are humanely treated, well fed and well cared for.

Captain T. J. Donaldson, the superin-endent, understands his business and we sel Fulton county has the right man in he right place. In the hospital we found hirteen men sick, each man, however, awing the best of treatment and atten-

Your committee cannot but forcibly express themselves as to the great need of a reformatory in Georgia and would urge that some action be taken by the state legislature looking to the establishment of a reformatory. We saw boys of tender age at the convict camps, who, if placed in a reformatory with the proper influence thrown around them, would turn out as good men, but as it is now, they are in constant association with the most hardened criminals and the influence cannot be but the very worst. Fulton county is to be congratulated upon its judges and its solicitor of the superior court, Mr. Charles D. Hill. Mr. Hill was more than willing at any and all times to give us all possible information and to assist us with his legal advice.

We recommend that these presentments be published once in The Morning Constitution and in The Evening Journal. Respectfully submitted. Three defective flues have caused the fire department to make three runs since o'clock last night. The first was a tele-phone alarm and came at 6:15 o'clock last night from the wholesale store of Hightower & Hallman, at 56 Peachtree street.

The damage was very slight and the biaze was easily extinguished. The second alarm came at 7:20 o'clock this morning, being also a telephone alarm. and called the department to 169 Alexander street. The defective flue had caused small blaze on the roof which was quenched without any trouble.

An alarm rung in from box 83 at 8:45 o'clock this morning gave the department a run to 83 Rawson street, where they found a blaze on the roof of a negro dwelling. The damage was very slight.

UNITED STATES COURT'S SESSION

Several Important Cases Disposed of There Today.

JUDGE NEWMAN PRESIDING

Case Against Marietta and North Georgia Railroad Company Dismisscd-Anderson Goes Free-Wheeler Scudder Case Is Dismissed-Other Court News.

This morning in chambers Judge Newman dismissed the mandamus against the Marietta and North Georgia Railway Company. The proceedings were begun some time ago and were brought because the road had not made the annual report to the interstate commerce commission as is required by the law. In the dismissal it was stated that the evidence showed that the road had passed into the hands of the Atlanta, Knoxville and Northern Railway Company and that they had made the report as is required by the law. The order was signed among the first papers.

The mandamus proceedings against the Northeastern Railroad of Georgia was also dismissed and the answer and demurrer which had been filed was sustained. In the demurrer it was set forth by the respon-dents that the notice of the preceedings had been served on J. S. Crews as auditor of the road after he had ceased to act it that capacity and after the present lessees, Ed A. Richards & Co., had come into

The respondents also stated that they had come into possession of the road on June 1, 1896, and that they had nothing to do with what had happened previous to that time. The respondents stated that they are not "carriers subject to the provisions of the act to regulate comm They stated that no copy of the order had been served on them and asked that the court sustain the demurrer. Referred to the Master.

The case of the Third National bank, of Philadelphia, against the Marietta and North Georgia Railway Company, which has for some time been pending in the United States court, which was set for the first case this morning, was referred to Special Master B. H. Hill, by Judgo Newman on motion of the plaintiff.

Anderson Case Nolle Prossed.

The case against Bob Anderson, who was charged with conspiracy, was nolle prossed this morning in chambers, on motion of the district attorney. In the motion he set forth that Anderson had always borne a good reputation and that the evidence against him was doubtful and incomplete and that only one man could be found who would testify against him and that that man was an accomplice in the crime. Taking all of these things into consideration he entered a nolle prosequi in the case which was sustained by Judge Newman. Anderson, it will be remembered, was implicated in the Worley killing, which was one of the most famous crimes that has ever been committed in north Georgia. He escaped, but afterwards surrendered himto the authorities. His conduct has Unique Street Gar Sprinkler System May Be Introduced in Atlanta at an Early Day.

A movement is now on foot in the city to organize a street car street sprinkling company, and if those interested in the movement succeed in their undertaking the people of this city will witness a unique revelation in the mode of settling the

The latest and probably the most improved pattern of street sprinklers is that one which is being introduced by the American Car Sprinkling Comrany. This device is simple in its construction and is easily operated. It has the appearance of an ordinary car. On the inside is a large tank. In the front and on the side of the car are the sprinklers. The one in front is stationary and is no wider than

On the side of the car is a sprinkler which is attached like an arm, and it extends to the sidewalk. When a conveyance or a foot passenger is approaching, the man who is operating the car can, by a simple movement, swing the sprinkler to one side of the car. This can be done almost instantly, and it is claimed that there

The company which is being organ zed in this city is backed up by influential and wealthy citizens, and it is thought that it is only a matter of a short time when car sprinklers will be on the streets. The street railway companies of the city have been approached about the matter, it being desired to use their tracks, and they seem to like the idea. If put in operation the new method of sprinkling the streets will be a great improvement over the old system.

The question came up in a communication from the ordinary of Twiggs county stating that there had been no election held in that county for fustices of the peace at the regular time prescribed by law and asking for the proper method of procedure in calling an election.

A suit was filed this morning in the clerk's office against the Southern Railway Company for $5,000 damages.

The plaintiff in the case is Jesse Towns, who was a fireman on the road. The petition claims he was compelled to carry a heavy log of wood across the train yards, on McDaniel street, and that in crossing the yard he stepped into a hole eighteen inches deep and fell to the ground, the log of wood on top of him.

He further claims that he is permanently and internally injured and that he will never be able to again do manual labor. His injuries, he claimed, are in the back and abdomen.

From "Her" Point of View.

It is said that the Lord tempers the wind to the shorn lamb, but the "new woman" evidently is not to be included in this flock. The winds that issue continuously from cavernous masculine head pieces beat upon her and make her weary. Bills prohibiting her from wearing shirtwaists, and petitions asking that laws be made to keep her from wearing corsets, are some of the obstructions thrown across her highway of life. Possibly the men think if she is deprived of her apparel she will not appear publicly. That is a great scheme, gentlemen, and one worthy of its originators. But there will probably be a modern lady Godiya who will undertake to free the serfs from the bonds. take to free the serfs from the bonds of oratorical iniquity and the heavy taxes that moss-grown conventionalities and hay-seed legislators levy upon her abilities.

There is another scheme these dear men have concocted, presumably to retard the progress of the new woman, that takes rank with the first for almost flendish in-genuity. In addition to depriving her of her clothes, she is to be starved! A start-ling statement? Yes; but it bears at least the appearance of truth. Isn't she absolutely debarred by law from many lucrative professions, not because of her lack of ability, but because she isn't a man? She must actually get bills passed by the august legislative bodies of the country to allow her to do things to earn a livelihood. In other words, men pre-sume to dictate to the women whom they do not marry what means they shall em-ploy to support themselves. If a man does not marry a woman and support her him-self, he hasn't any right to interfere with her. If a man does marry a woman and she supports him, he hasn't any right to interfere, either.

Of course one does not expect the men to marry all the women, for the simple reason that there are too many of them. As has been stated before, there are actually 6,000 more women than men right here in Georgia. Of course matrimony would be a pleasant and delightful solution of the woman problem, but there is no getting around this surplus 6,000. This no getting around this surplus 6,000. This serious fact of this existence must be faced.
There is this, also: the woman who is a bit intellectual, who sees in matrimony something more than a mere convenient nt, will probably, when she re-offers she has had, conclude that she is one of the forlorn 6,000. One little woman, who is regarded as being quite advanced because she has done a great deal of unusual work, said to me: Oh, I would not hesitate to give up the best possible position to marry. It would be delightful to have somebody to be pleased with the pretty clothes I'd wear, and to pay the bills for them. But just any-body won't do," she added, soberly. "The man must be my recognized superior. I could not respect a man who was my inferior in any way."

When the librarian bill for women was before the senate committee for considera-tion recently, a young woman asked a certain senator to vote for it when it came up in the senate. He said he couldn't do it. He was not specially opposed to the principle of the bill, but he said he feared if women were admitted to positions where they could earn comfortable salaries they wouldn't marry. Ye gods! isn't that a lofty view to take of it, though. Of course this doesn't represent the sentiment of all men. But it was the sentiment of a voter who had the privilege of making it a force. Gentlemen, please don't let this sort of idea trouble your minds. A woman's a is the summer girl to think of this investigation committee business? This new feat-use in the possibilities of life will play a very grave and vital part in the future of maidens, fair, frivolous or otherwise atmaidens, fair, involus of otherwise attractive. And next summer when the season of vacations and summer resort festivities begin, why—there won't be any festivities. Women will fiee from their hitherto legal possessions among the men as from a pestilence. For nowadays one is liable to be hauled up before a horrid investigating compilities; an inquisitorial investigating committee; an inquisitorial committee of stern, not-to-be-gainsaid gentlemen who dig out every detail of foolish miserable, innocent little old flirtations. And fancy telling those things!—things one would hardly tell to one's own papa. It is dreadful, and one feels sure the average summer girl would willingly forego the pleasure of an innocent flirtation. If she knew it in time, rather than face feminine standpoint, too? They have insisted all along that women should keep out of politics and professions generally as much as possible, and that they make themselves charmingly sweet and beguiling; and when they do this so successfully that even the grave and judicial of the earth approve, what follows? Are they left to live peacefully in the sunshine of approbation? No; they are investigated and harried generally. What woman, do you think, wants her own individual affairs investigated? And one may well ask the question, Whither are we drifting? What is the summer girl to do? If this outrageous persecution turns her into a "new woman" who wants to vote in order to get her "rights," without their being investigated, there will be trouble. For if the summer girl brings her usual tacties into play in this new field of operations men will regard the regular article of "advanced" woman as being an agel be side her. Regarded in this light, it really is not safe to throw any damper in the way of investigating committees over this turbulent spirit. Regarded in any light, it is a serious question

Rev. W. T. Bell, of Atlanta, and Miss Elma Cox, of LaGrange, were united in marriage at this place last Thursday afternoon by Rev. J. D. Milton. The bride has spent the most of her life in this community, where she has a number of relatives and friends. She has a great many splendid traits of character and is well fitted to help her husband in his no-ble calling. The groom was the pastor of the Methodist church at this place several years ago and is much beloved and admired by all our people. He is the present pastor of St. Paul's church, Atlanta, and we doubt not but he is doing a splendid work there. The happy couple left im-mediately for Whitfield, where they took or Atlanta. FOREST PROTECTION.

From The Philadelphia Inquirer. Governor Black, of New York, in his inaugural address, touches upon a subject which has an importance for other states which has an importance for other states than his own. He impresses upon the people the necessity for protecting their forest domain and for extending its area.

Forest protection in this state has also become a problem to be intelligently and foreibly grappled with, and it can only be by a broad and vigorous policy which has no notions of false economy, but realizes the benefit to be derived from the preservation of forest lands.

These lands are increasing in value, and it would be short-sightedness on the part of legislators to allow the devastation to continue unchecked the while the water supply is being constantly diminished and floods and freshets are making increased havoc.

MUSTARD FOR RED CHEEKS.

Frem The Cleveland Plaindealer. At a recent public function in this city the attention of a lady guest was drawn to the roseate cheeks of one of the young matrons.

"Hasn't she a lovely complexion?" said clously high color," quoth the doubting guest.

So she resolved to approach as close as possible to the red cheeks and try and discover the cause of their glowing suffusion. Fretty soon her oppertunity came. She came very close indeed to the rougeless complexion, and had a chance to survey it with minute care.

She noticed the skin was peculiarly drawn and puckered in two geometrically correct circles, and it came to her in a flash that she knew the cause. The woman had put small mustard plasters on her cheeks to redden them, and in this case she had left them on a little too long.

Mrs. Mary Thurston Thompson, of this city, is known as one of the foremost women of the south. She was fieshy and is now thin, weil and comely as at twenty-five. Read what she says of her experience with Dr. Edison's Obesity treatment: "I became too fieshy and, consequently, unhealthy, and was induced to use Dr. Edison's Obesity Pfils and Fruit Salt for fiesh reduction and general physical benefit. In six weeks these remedies relieved me of thirty-six pounds of surplus fiesh, reducing me from 167 to 131. I am cured of that feeling of 'fullness' so common to fat people and of hard breathing, which had long been very painful to me. For eight years I had been a sufferer from rheumatism and can add that after taking Dr. Edison's Obesity Pfils and Fruit Salt last fall I found myself entirely free from this disease for the first time since 1888. I feel that I cannot recommend this treatment too highly, and I wish all too fat men and women would investigate it."

There is scarcely a more popular lady in Atlanta's society and musical circles than Mrs. Anna Warren Mayer, who writest "Encouraged by my husband's success with Dr. Edison's Obesity treatment—for I, too, was fat and unhealthy—I began to use Dr. Edison's Obesity Fills and Salt. In two months they brought me down in flesh and weight from 184 to 132, cured me of chronic indigestion, cleared my face of liver spots, improved my form and complexion, and put me in better health than I had known for many years. I am recommending Dr. Edison's Obesity Pills to many fat frends, and all who use them are benefited by them."

Mrs. Marion Chellis Warde writes from her home in Atlanta: "I have been relieved of twenty—x pounds of burdensone fat on shoulders and bust in one month by the use of Dr. Edison's Obesity Pills and Fruit Salt."

The Burning of the Native Quarter of Bombay Is Not Considered Advise ble-The Goddess Bhowance Accused of Having Sent It.

Tacoma, Wash., January 23 .- Major Edward J. Turner, an English army officer stationed at Rombay, and now on his way to England on a furlough, gives a graphic description of the horrors of the plague now devastating Bombay and other cities

"The natives are so wasted by starvan," said he, "that they have no power to resist the plague, but panic-stricken they fall a prey to the horrible death. In outlying districts I found the bodies nerous in the roads. On the banks of the Ganges, where the ghats are all located, hundreds of bodies are lying waiting their turn to be burned.

The ghats are small, raised burning piles made of stone. The victim is brought to the Ganges river, if possible, before death, that he may die by the sacred stream: then when he dies his body is dipped into the stream, taken out and laid on the ghat, with a pile of wood under and above it, and is soon reduced to ashes, which are swept off into the river.

Native Outbreak Expected. "The natives look upon the plague as a courge of their goddess Bhowance, that rference with their religious rites.

expect to more than reach home before being summoned back to my post. The situation is becoming alarming. The propo-sition is being seriously considered of setting fire to the entire native quarter of the city, as well as the barracks of the native troops, in the hope of thereby burning out the contagion.

"I don't know what will be done, for the earth seems laden with the poison, and it is carried by rats and other vermin Nothing except a furnace heat can purify the quarters where the plague has raged."

THE RUMMAGER HOME ONCE MORE IN WAR TIMES

Will Lead the Grand March.

DELEGATION WELCOMES HER

She Has Just Completed a Sentence of Six Months for Beating a Policeman and Is Now the Hero of the Hour. Cheek Conners Association Ball Now was lacking to impart the necessary eclat to the Chuck Connors Association ball next Monday night, and that was the return of the Rummager from the workhouse. The lady came back yesterday, after serving six months for whipping a policeman, and if the four strong-armed women who are now scrubbing the Rummager, at the expense of Mr. Connors, complete the job in time, she and Chunk will lead the grand march when the Chinese band begins to Chinatown's popular society leader, accompanied by his theatrical manager, went down to the wharf to meet the lady and welcome her back to her festal haunts. In rivate life the Rummager is known as Mary Ann Maloney, but she has been so long in public life as a candidate for the thouse that her real name has fallen

"Hully gee! Pipe de togs!" gasped Mr. Connors, as the Rummager stepped airily from the prison boat attired in four bartenders' jackets that had once been white. "Don't youse like me style?" the lady re-lied, somewhat haughtly.
"Fergit it," Mr. Connors said courteous-

"Soap mus' be extra on the islan'. aldn't tink of dat. But say, what a holy show youse'll make at de ball in dat rig, I don't tink? I'll blow youse off to a scrub if it's a go."

The Rummager looked at the genteel the-atrical man, at Chuck's new suit, with creases down the trouser legs, and then glanced at her barroom tollet. The jackion, and the hair of the lady resembled a wad of neglected oakum. From her ex-pression the Rummager did evidently yearn to be genteel like the elegant pair confronting her. A gleam of longing shone in her eyes as she said:

wit youse, Chuck, in everyting but 'De words tickles me, an' I'll make a leidy of youse," said Mr. Connors. Wit' bot' of us trowin' up a front de gran' march'll knock 'em silly. But I'll have to put youse away till de ball is pulled off. It youse git back to Pell street an' go to hoistin' in dem high hats of mixed ale, de low will near kill papa. So youse and de t'irst youse brung from de islan' mus' wait till after de blowout. Look!"

The Rummager "looked." and she saw that Chuck meant business. So the belleto-be of the ball allowed herself to be removed to a secure retreat high up on the East Side, away from all temptation. That the Rummager may shine with an effulgence befitting her station. Mr. Con-nors has chartered a white silk ball dress from a Baxter street costumer at the enormous expense of $2.50. For himself he employed the services of Tallor Boyarsky, of Canal and Ludlow streets, who warrants to make a hired dress suit fit for one night for the modest sum of $3. The tailor altered a swallow-tail for Chuck, and then found a fight on his hands, as that fastidswells wear at Hammerstein's roof garden.

From Bacigalupi, an Italian undertaker on the East Side, Mr. Connors borrowed a pair of white cotton gloves with which to complete his ballroom toilet. As the tailor attends balls where him dress suits are in use, armed with a whisk broom to brush face powder from the shoulders of the gents, Chuck cannot fail to make a good appearance.

THE VENEZUELAN QUESTION.

Washington, January 23.—In a retrospect for the past year, The Demerara Chron-icle, which has just reached the state department, treats the outcome of the Venezuelan boundary dispute jubilantly for over a column, and expresses confidence after a long review of the evidence that the Olney-Pauncefote arbitral tribunal will confirm the British claims in a material particular. A possible departure for the Schomburgk line in the Upper Cuyuni basin is looked for, but it is asserted there need be no fear as to the retention of the whole northwest district to the mouth of the Orinoco, which is after all the most important part of the territory in dispute. Considerable satisfaction is taken in the thorough exploitation of the resources of the colony in Great Britain and America on account of the newspaper interest in the dispute.

VERY USEFUL

Man-Lifting Kite.

Be Lifted by a Kite-He Succeeds in Reaching the Height of Forty-Two Feet Above Ground-Much Has Been Done in This Line Abroad.

New York, January 23 .- The utility of the kite in war times was tested at Governor's island yesterday with satisfaction. Lieutenant Hugh D. Wise, of the Ninth Infantry, who has been experimenting for months, was elevated to an altitude of forty-two feet and swept the surrounding country with his glass. He was assisted by Corporal Lewis and five other officers

Four kites were used. They were at tached to a windlass running out a half-inch manilla cord connected with an iron ring drawn up fifty feet above the ground From the ring the kites ran up on two one-inch cords. Two kites, one above the other, were attached to each of the latter cords. To the ring was also attached a tackle and block running a heavy rope to the ground. On this rope Lieutenant Wise was pulled into the air by two of the officers. At the time the estimated pulling force of the kites was 400 pounds. The wind was blowing at the rate of fifteen miles per hour from the southwest. Lieutenant Wise placed himself in a seat attached to the more than twelve feet owing to the variation of the wind. When a steady blow was was hauled up a little above the eaves of the officer's quarters, at which the test was made. The distance was estimated at forty-two feet. He remained there for some time, brought his glass to bear on all sides and then signaled to be lowered. The test was repeated, and Lieutenant

Wise expressed himself as highly gratified. The four kites used weighed sixty-five pounds and their cost was calculated to be about $12 each. In form they were parallelopipedons, consisting of frame boxes braced out with wire and covered with strong cotton cloth. Lieutenant Wise is the only person in this country who has succeeded in accom-plishing this much with kites. Experiments, however, have been successfully made in England and Australia. Captain H. Baden Powell, of the British army, was elevated 160 feet a year ago, and Lawrence Har-grave ascended forty feet recently in Aus-When seen yesterday Lieutenant

"Captain Powell had the use of a parachute in connection with the kites in a short time. I think that the kite may be exceedingly useful. Such able persons as President Langley, of the Smithsonian Institution; Professor Marvin, of the weather bureau, and Civil Engineer Chanut, of Chicago, have been investigating the subfected which will easily carry a man in a gale which would tear a balloon into pieces. The portability of these kites con-tributes to their usefulness. They will, The portability of these kites conhowever, always labor under the disadvantage of requiring a strong treeze. My kites are a modification of the Hargrave invention. I attribute my success to hard work and study. I have never made any experiments without working the theory out beforehand. I had a great deal of bad luck, and the number of kites broken, and the work was sometimes very discouraging. I have now, altogether, about sixty kites of various sizes and forms."

Foreclosure of Union Pacific Railroad Begun in Omaha Today.

DECISIVE STEP TAKEN.

St. Louis, Mo., January 23.-The first decisive step to secure foreclosure of the llen of the United States government upon the Union Pacific railway was taken here

United States District Judge Sanborn was called upon at the Southern hotel at 9 p. m. by Attorney John Cowen. He asked the judge to direct that foreclosure proceedings be begun at once.

All the legal bearings of the case were discussed by the two jurists and finally the judge issued the order.

Mr. Cowen had barely sufficient time to catch a train for Omaha, where he will institute foreclosure proceedings today.

JONES HAS HIS WIFE ARRESTED and One of His Salesmen.

THIS COUNTRY'S FIRST TIME LYNN IN A CONSTERNATION

Lieutenant Wise Allows Himself To Hotel Seymour the Scene of the Trouble-The Pair Have Been Watched for Some Time-The Woman's Room Was Forced Open-Both Declare They Are Innocent and That It Is a Conspiracy on the Part of the Husband, Who Wishes To Get a

> Lynn, Mass., January 23.-Lynn people were given a sensation last evening in the arrest of the wife of one of the most prominent shoe manufacturers in the city, and a traveling salesman from Oswego, N. Y., for adultery.

The arrest was made at the Hotel Seymour and was attended with very sensational features, as the woman's husband and his brother, accompanied by a private detective who had been engaged to watch the pair, broke into the room.

The woman is Mrs. Nellie Jones, wife of A. Henry Jones, of the firm of V. K. & A. H. Jones. She is a good looking woman. about forty years old and ten years her husband's junior. The salesman registered at the Seymour about three weeks ago under the name of C. J. Witheraux, Jones and his wife have lived at the Seymour for several months.

He alleges that very soon after the orrival of Witheraux he saw things which convinced him that his wife was altogether too friendly with him and he determined to watch the pair.

Last evening it was deemed time to act and entrance was forced to a room in which were found two men and two women, one of the men being Witheraux and one of the women Mrs. Jones.

The two latter were placed under arrest and taken to the police station, where Mrs. Jones became hysterical and fainted. Both Witheraux and Mrs. Jones declared that they are innocent of any wrongdoing and that it is a conspiracy on the part of the husband, who wished to secure a divorce. They were bailed out. EGAN RE-ARRESTED.

THE COUNTERFEITER FOUND BY SECRET SERVICE AGENTS.

He Broke Jail January 14th and Has Since Been at Large-Found in Brooklyn Yesterday. Nabbed a Pal.

New York, January 23.-Michael Egan member of a counterfeiting gang, who escaped from Ludlow street jail on the evening of January 14, was recaptured yesteday by secret service agents near No. 81 a furnished room. He had arranged to leave for New Orleans tomorrow, having engaged as second cook on a steamer leaving for that port.

Speaking of his escape from the jail, Egan said he walted twenty minutes at the iron grating of the outer prison for Masso, whose wife had given him, Masso, $160 to facilitate his, Egan's, escape.

Egan grew tired of waiting for Masso and left. Egan said five jewelers' saws were used in cutting the bars.

Later in the afternoon "Jeff" Davis was arrested as he was entering the home of Egan's mother in this city. It is believed he called there to tell her of Egan's rearrest. Davis was one of Basford's counterfeiting gang, to which Egan belonged. He has served two terms in jail for counterfelting, having been sentenced to three years in 1889 and 1892.

A Chorus Girl, Whose Married Life Was Unhappy, Takes Poison-She Refuses, in the Hospital. To Promise Not To Try To Take Her Life Again--Writes a Letter To Her Mother and Then Carefully Prepares for the End.

New York, January 23 .- From the chorus to death's door.

The journey was a short one-only from Wallack's theater to her lodging house, and Emily Constantine Fitzpatrick set out upon it fearlessly. Life held nothing for but black memories. Death? Well, it might bring peace and forgetfulness. For weeks she had thought of suicide.

Wednesday night she decided to try it. She took her place in the chorus, as usual -the third African on the right of the stage in "Kismet." She sang and she danced, but her thoughts were of death. Then she said goodnight to the girls and went home, where she had a two-ounce bottle of carbolic acid. About 2 o'clock in the morning Miss Constantine, as the girl calls herself, went to Miss Higgins, who is also in the same theatrical company, and who occupies s room adjoining, and asked her for a stamp, saying she wanted to post a letter. Miss Higgins had no stamp, so Miss Constantine went out to buy one

A Cry of Agony. Miss Higgins heard her return to her room and close her door. The next thing she heard was Emily Constantine's voice.

"What is the matter?" asked Miss Hig-"Oh, May, May, let me in! It's me.

As Miss Higgins opened the door her friend staggered across the threshold and fell to the floor. "Oh, May, I have swallowed carbolic acid!"

Miss Higgins did not wait for any further information, but rushed to the street in her night gown and screamed: "Police

In a few minutes two policemen came: then a physician and then an ambulance, which took Miss Constantine to the New York hospital, where she now lies under arrest. She had taken nearly an ounce of the acid. More than enough to kill, but the irony of fate ruled otherwise.

In Miss Higgins she had confided some of her troubles. She told her that she was twenty-two years old; that she was married when she was only sixteen, and that four years later was divorced. She said her husband, Herbert Fitzpatrick, is a New York man, and that she was born in England. Her father, she said, is an actor, traveling with the Otis Skinner company. Domestic troubles are supposed to have been the cause of her despondency. To whom the letter she mailed was written nobody knows. Another letter, unaddress ed, was found in her room: It reads: "God bless you, dear mamma. I write this at 4:30 a. m. Godbless you and daddy. You know how much I have gone through.

Near the letter was found a half bottle of carbolic acid, which had been purchased at L. Keyser's drug store, No. 430 Sixth avenue. Miss Higgins says Miss Constantine bought it five or six weeks

Had Planned Her Death. Miss Constantine had evidently meditated suicide for some time and planned it de-liberately Wednesday night. She prepared herself for her burial, bathed and dressed herself in clean clothes Mrs. Constantine, the girl's mother, who lives at No. 315 West Fifty-fourth street, went at once to the hospital. Mrs. Constantine was nearly heart; broken and fell on her knees beside Emma's bed. "Oh, Emma, my darling, why did you do this?" she cried. "Promise me, my child, that you will never try to kill yourse!

again!" "I can't promise you that, mamma, dear," feebly moaned the girl. "I can't promise you that, for you know all I have gone through."
At the hospital last night the girl's cor dition was said to have improved, but she was by no means out of danger.
